

Bill: I can not tell you how much I dread airport security checks these days. With all this extra security, you need to get here at least five hours early.

Mary: Come on baby, I just think in a few hours we will be in Cancun enjoying our three day getaway.

Bill: Mary, that is easier said than done. I just wish that the security staff would step on it a bit. Our flight leaves in thirty minutes.

Mary: Keep your pants on honey. It will all be over before you know it.

Bill: It just seems that we have been waiting forever and a day to get through.

Mary: Look, we are up next.

Bill: O.K. I am going to walk through.

BEEP BEEP

Security: Sir, can you take your belt and shoes off.

Bill: I don't have time for this crap.

Security: Sir , we can do this the easy way or the hard way.

Bill: Oh alright.....

Security: OK sir, you can go now. Thanks for your time.

Bill: Yeah, whatever.

Mary: See that didn't hurt, did it.

Bill: Yeah, whatever. I swear that was the last straw. Once we get back from Cancun, I am never flying again.